

Outliers Malcolm Gladwell

Opportunity

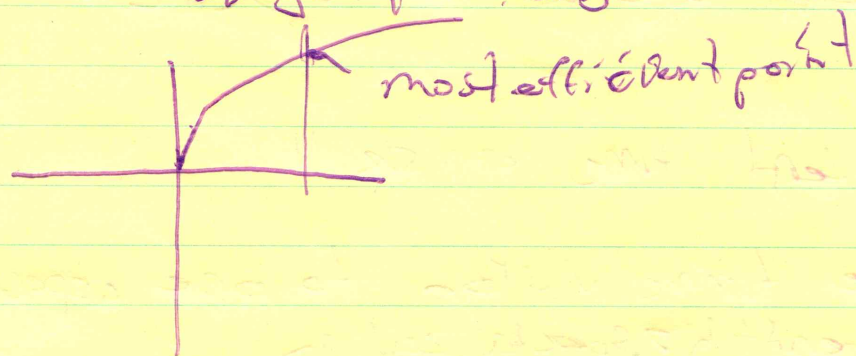

- Maximise by committing expertise to up and coming prominent areas of research
- Spend consistent time on skill
- Do not have tunnel vision to one aspect of life
↳ breadth > specialization
ie/ Robert Oppenheimer

Legacy

Understand legacy plays a part in character traits and mannerisms but do not let this hinder you or get false 'boonies'.

Leverage the social aspect of humans to become more successful basically using olive and conquer don't fall into the trap of Langston be more like Oppenheimer and the Jewish immigrants.

Competence and skill are generally based on a threshold and diminishing return basis try too get to that threshold on a multitude of subject areas.

Recognize the prevalence of Power Distance Index in social situations and leverage this in multiple facets of life.

Strive to maintain a low power index as to make it easy to progress in life.

Overall understand the importance of underlying variables in the pursuit of happiness and success. But strive to optimize these features as much as possible as to increase the probability of becoming an Outlier.